FREE BRIDGE DEMONSTRATION PLANS HAVE BEEN ARRANGED.

Monster Mass Meeting Will Be Held Either at Carnegie Hall or City Hall on Next Friday Evening.

CAPTAIN DUNN CHIEF MARSHAL

Chairman John Duggan of Arrangements Committee Getting Things in Shape—Harry Dunn of Merchants Association Will Preside at Meeting.

Plans have practically been completed for the monster free bridge demonstration to be held here next Friday evening. For only thing that has not been fully determined is the place of holding such meeting. The committee in charge is yet undecided whether it will be at the Carnegie Free Library or City Hall. The latter place is within a stone's throw of the bridge in question. Captain Duggan has planned a great demonstration and deserves much credit for his work. Promptly at 7:30 the parade will form at City Hall and head out by the North Branch and through the city to the bridge. The parade will be accompanied by the South Branch band and the band of the City of Connellsville. The parade will be accompanied by the South Branch band and the band of the City of Connellsville.

Captain B. Dunn will act as Chief Marshal and the following Aldes have been appointed: D. P. Leiby, C. M. Stone, James McGloth, George L. Leiby, J. D. Wagon, C. B. Plunk, P. J. Toomey, R. C. Hecbower, J. R. Bradford, P. J. Hamilton, W. K. Hightower, W. H. Lowrey, G. J. Humbert and H. H. Crossland.

The parade will be accompanied by the South Branch band and the band of the City of Connellsville. The parade will be accompanied by the South Branch band and the band of the City of Connellsville. The parade will be accompanied by the South Branch band and the band of the City of Connellsville.

The Grand Jury which convenes next week will pass on the matter and it is proposed to send a committee to Connellsville on the day the question comes up. This committee will be as large as is possible and will be charged with the duty of investigating the matter and reporting to the Grand Jury.

Disenfranchising free bridges in Fayette county the Evening Sentinel in a recent editorial says.

Now, with the bridge question prominently before the public and the problem at Point Marion is waiting solution the matter is free bridge at Connellsville must be settled. It is not to be put off at all. It is a question of the future of the bridge and the future of the bridge is a question of the future of the bridge.

BRIDGEVILLE WEDDING.

Miss Helen Mealey and Dr. Jesse De Muth of Crafton, Pa.

Miss Mary Field of Highland Run, DuPont township, was to be married this morning to the Rev. Dr. Jesse De Muth of Crafton, Pa. and Miss Helen Mealey, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Mealey of Bridgeville. The ceremony will be a private wedding ceremony at the home of the bride at 10 o'clock. Dr. De Muth is well known in Connellsville having formerly resided near Mealey. After the ceremony they will leave for New York from which they will sail for Europe where they will spend a year or more.

WOMAN MISSING.

NEGROES RELEASED.

Were Charged With Carrying Concealed Weapons as a Consequence of Row in Grape Alley.

William Dyer and John Shubert, the two negro men who were arrested last week for a disturbance in Grape Alley in which several local and State policemen injured, were given a hearing yesterday evening before Justice of the Peace William P. Clark. A large crowd was present at the hearing.

Officers Arch Holliday and J. P. Temple of the local force and John Litten, a citizen who the Common Pleas court principal witnesses.

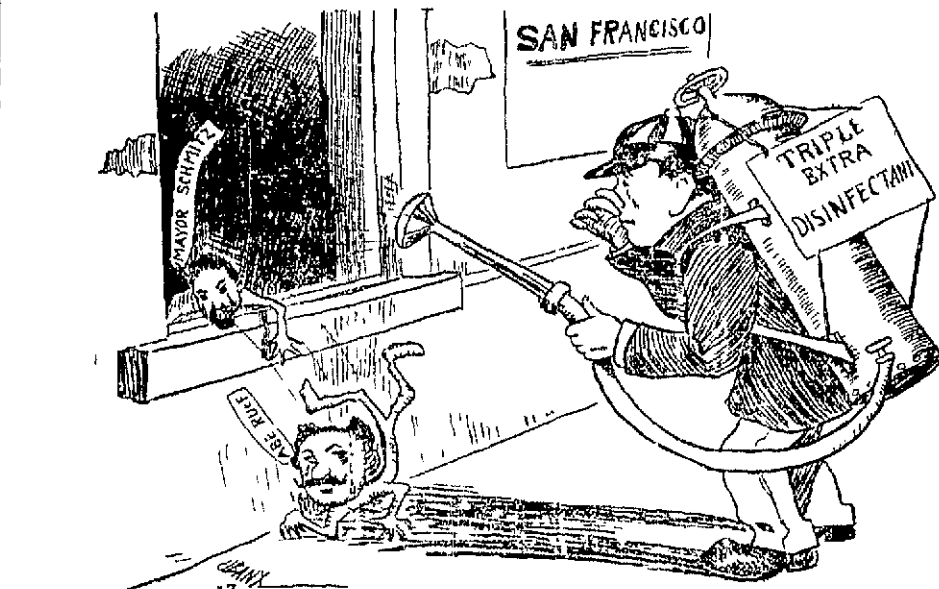

The two men were defended by Attorney L. C. Hightower. Shubert denied having a revolver until he ran into his home on Grape Alley where he had one from under a sofa and started up stairs. Dyer admitted having one gun in his possession but said he carried it for protection having been threatened by Litten.

Neon Weather Bulletin.

BILLY EARLE WINNER.

The Veteran's Mill Town Team Wallop Locals Two to One.

IT WAS HARD ONE TO LOSE.

Weak Hitting Was Chiefly Responsible for Defeat of Malarkey's Boys. The Weather Was Also Pious for Ball Playing.

Connellsville landed in fourth place with an awful thud yesterday afternoon when Billy Earle's Scottsdale tribe, of which one Mr. Humphries was the ringleader, forcibly carried away the game. Scottsdale won by the score of 2 to 1. Under more favorable conditions the game would have been an ideal one, but the cold, raw wind prevented the best being done on either side. Cold weather means bad baseball and it is a question whether the visitors would have been so fortunate in hot weather. The Mill Town boys look fully 50 per cent. stronger than when they were here last and Billy Earle has a winning aggregation there. Particularly was the work of Ralston in middle field of the stellar order. He took everything that came into his territory and several that didn't. And the wind carrying the ball all sorts of ways, at that.

It's a short story. It was also a short game. There wasn't a single kick or interruption in the contest. Wolfe umpired. He was way off on balls and strikes at times but it was too cold to raise a home. Some people were mean enough to say that Wolfe was still feeling the effects of a high old time the night previous, but his work was all that could be expected of an ump. His style is all right.

Scottsdale started the ball rolling in the second inning. With two men out and Pettor on first Humphries lammed one to left field that Ambsry misjudged. His judgment would have been all right if the wind hadn't waited the ball about 10 feet to one side. Before the elusive sphere was recovered Pettor had crossed the glad pan and the visiting twirler reared pouncefully on third. In the fifth the Mill Towners got another man round the glad gum. Matz binged the ball over second and reached first. Welty sent a grounder to Birmingham, who started to catch Matz going to second. Nobody covered the bag and when Birmingham threw to first the ball went wild. Pettor fouled out to Moran, but Matz scored on Humphries' fly to right.

Connellsville got one lone tally in the fifth. With two men down Ambsry slugged and came home when Moran laced the bulb to right for two sacks. Following is the score:

Notes of the Game.

With one exception it was the shortest game played on the home grounds this season. Latrobe did the trick in an hour and 20 minutes.

Wolfe colored the scorekeepers off the Connellsville players' bench. He also made Billy Earle sit down.

The home routers almost had stage fright in the fifth. With a man on second and two out, Ralston sent a fly to Ambsry. Ambsry got it all right, but dropped the ball while throwing it back to the diamond. Miller came romping home but the out went. Ambsry held the ball long enough to get the batter out.

Love made a good impression at short. Once he failed to cover second, thus causing Birmingham's only error, and another time he made a wild throw to first because Hart didn't cover second in time to retire a runner coming to that sack, but otherwise he did all right. His playing is not spectacular but he covers lots of ground. He didn't get a hit but no strikeouts were his.

Woodruff pitched good enough ball to win. In only one inning did the visitors get two hits.

Humphries had the home boys at his mercy. They had no trouble finding his curves but he made them hit the ball where a fielder was waiting for it.

Ralston played a great game in middle for the visitors. His six chances were all hard. On the first one he collided with Duckett but held on to the sphere.

Ambsry ought to develop into a good outfielder. His four chances were hard. That hit of his saved the team a shutout. Tiffany broke his hard luck streak and got two singles. Francis is still hitting in hard luck. Both of his Mathers had hard luck. Both of his long hits to the outfield were lessened by Ralston.

Danny Hart didn't do anything in the hitting line. His only hit beyond the outfield went into Duckett's hands. Birmingham got out twice on high fouls to Welty.

Three home boys lanned the atmosphere. Francis, Hart and Woodruff were the victims. Clayton, Ralston and Humphries bit at wild ones for Scottsdale. The first two fanned in the first inning and Humphries in the last.

Every Connellsville player had at least one pitout.

Birmingham and love had the same number of chances and handled them the same way. Each had three putouts, four assists and an error. Strange to say both errors were similar; high throws to first because failure to cover second prevented them from shooting the ball to that bag.

Connellsville didn't get a man on first until the fourth inning, when Tiffany singled. They got one man home and another to second in the fifth; one to first in the eighth and one in the ninth.

Scottsdale had a man left on base in every inning except the sixth and seventh.

It looked as though the visitors would get several runs in during the eighth. With two men on bases and two out, Welty sent a liner over short that looked like a sure hit. Love made a pretty flying catch of the ball and retired the side.

John Moore, who catches for the B. & O. clerks, knows Tucker, who hails from Clearfield. John says the new pitcher has speed to burn and pitches a steady game.

Billy Earle warmed the bench yesterday. He wasn't as excitable as usual, for his team was winning. Had Scottsdale been a couple of runs behind nothing but a corps of State Constabulary could have kept Billy still.

It was Ladies' Day but the weather kept the fair sex away. About a dozen braved the elements and shivered through the game.

Malarkey thinks he will play football instead of base ball. Woodruff is a crack halfback, while Tiffany is a veteran at the pignish game. Moran would probably play center.

Love played in the New England League earlier in the season. The death of his mother brought him back to his Allegheny home. He certainly looked good yesterday.

Bobby Ball, a great favorite here as well as in Scottsdale, only had one chance, a foul fly. He got one hit.

The summary of yesterday's game was one of the shortest of the year. There were but two hits for extra bases, no battery errors, no sacrifice hits and only one stolen base. Strange to say there wasn't a single dispute through the whole game.

Wolfe was booked to pitch for Connellsville early in the season. He didn't look good to Malarkey as a twirler. His umpiring was all to the good.

Every game in the West Penn yesterday was won and lost by the narrow margin of one score.

Fairmont is climbing upwards. So is Greensburg.

The new schedule looks good. It gives a team on the road more games in each town. That old schedule was badly arranged in many ways. To send Connellsville, for instance, on a trip to Butler and Beaver Falls was too expensive for the local management. For the same reason the West Virginia towns have been on too many long lumps for but a few days. Visiting teams should play at least three games in each town. Then, if it rains on one day, they have a chance to get more than a rain guarantee of $25.

There ought to be a good crowd out at Cumberland on Decoration Day. Hoy's a warm welcome to the Queen City.

The eight teams are remarkably well balanced. Clarkburg just now is a little weak but Elmer Essler will get the team out of the rut before long. The season is young yet and clubs in the second division have all kinds of chances to get up the ladder. It's a safe bet that Butler, Greensburg, Fairmont and Connellsville will hit the toboggan slide more than once in the next couple of months. So far Connellsville has kept out of the second division. It's the only team in the league that has done so. If the boys can keep above the .500 mark all season they will accomplish something out of the ordinary.

There were some good players on the Latrobe team that Cumberland will be wise to keep. Pitcher Willets is one of them.

Tom Dillon, Cumberland's manager is an old timer. If he can't get baseball out a player its because there isn't any to get.

CABRERA AN ACTOR

Attempt to Kill Him Was Framed Up By Himself.

Mexico City, May 24.—Mexico has 8,000 men fully equipped and on a war footing on the Guatemalan frontier. Distributed at strategic points to the south of the capital are 5,000 additional troops which can be transported to the border on 24 hours' notice.

A. P. Hawley, an American business man who has returned from a trip to Guatemala and other Central American republics, said: "Two days after the alleged attempt it was known about Central America that the whole business was a badly garbled plan framed up by Cabrera himself as an inspired moment to arouse the sympathy of the country and of the neighboring republics in his behalf."

"All he got was a thinly veiled note of regret and sympathy from the various countries, who are, as a matter of course, obliged to accept the statement of the government."

"In Guatemala City every one knows that the explosion of a few harmless powder caps was all a pre-arranged affair. Cabrera had another motive in the business. Nineteen men were arrested, charged with the crime; and, after listening the charge on them, he is going to show his magnanimity to all the world by pardoning each and every one of them. This little play is to gain the confidence of the outside world."

TO ONE CELLAR, $638.879
That's What It Cost to Furnish New Capital Easement.

Harrisburg, May 23.—The total cost to the state of furnishing the 65 rooms in the basement of the new capitol was $66,790.1. Twenty-six of these rooms are used for storage purposes by the various departments as a house and senate parking and folding rooms. The total cost of furnishing these 26 rooms was $627,338.79, of which $614,057.18 was paid to the Pennsylvania Construction Co. of Marquette, Pa. for metallic furniture. There is no metallic furniture in any of the remaining 37 rooms, none of which is in use.

Every one of the 65 rooms, however, contains at least one thermostat costing $79, and from one to 15 white metal chandeliers, costing $26 each. The thermostats and chandeliers were supplied by Sanderson.

One of the interesting exhibits found on the table of costs for the basement rooms is the item of toilet ladders. These ladders were supplied by the Pennsylvania Construction Co. and are used to reach the top of the metallic cases. There are 38 of them and their total cost to the state was $5,700.

Some of the rooms not now in use were to be fitted up for bath and lounging rooms, but the contract for furnishings were revoked several months ago.

GOLDEN WEST GIRL.

At the Colonial Wednesday Will Draw a Big House.

"The Girl of the Golden West" David Belasco's wonderfully successful drama at California in the days of '19, will be seen at the Colonial Theatre next Wednesday evening, May 23. The Girl of the Golden West is the second production issuing from the Belasco studio that New York audiences admired all of last season. Were it not for previous contracts that compel his departure from the metropolis there is no doubt that the play could remain here as long as d.d. Mr. Warfield in "The Music Master." But the newest Belasco piece, "The Rose of the Rancho," was booked for the Belasco home theatre in New York, and so "The Girl of the Golden West" has become its tour of the other large cities of the country.

The stage production of "The Girl of the Golden West" is according to the Belasco standard with which players are by law, line throughly familiar. The settings are historically and geographically correct in detail

Marks of Distinction

What the Victoria Cross is to the British soldiers, the "Triangle A" is to cigars—the mark of highest merit.

Only soldiers of proven merit wear the cross.

Only the best cigars on earth bear the "A" (Triangle A).

You record an emphatic protest against low-quality high-profit cigars every time you demand the "Triangle A" brands.

When you buy cigars get your money's worth and be sure of it!

Choose your cigars from boxes bearing the "Triangle A" mark of merit—then you know you're getting greater value than your money can buy any other way.

The "Triangle A" identifies the product of the American Cigar Company—the only complete organization with the only "stemmeries" equipment for scientifically developing the ripest fragrance of the best tobacco, for making a smooth, uniform blend, and for delivering the cigars to you in their best smoking condition.

The "Triangle A" on a cigar box guarantees full value, cleanliness, and unvarying quality.

represents the best quality that can be produced and sold for five cents—it proves every claim we make for cigars sold under the "Triangle A."

Every box is extra-wrapped in glassine paper, sealed at each end with the "Triangle A" in red, to maintain perfect smoking condition and cleanliness until the box is opened.

Quit Your Boarding; Go To Housekeeping

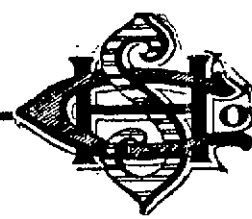

Why don't you get into a home of your own? Why don't you get serious—get out of this business of paying board and living in a single room when you might just as well believe like a proud prince in a home of your own. There stands a home that was built up by a young couple with no more earthly goods than you possess at this minute. That man and wife made up their minds to start out for themselves—now see the result.

It doesn't require a fortune to establish a happy and comfortable home, not by a long sight—just a little push and energy—just enough to land you at Featherman & Sumberg's. We'll do the rest.

Our simplified credit system has done for others what it will do for you. We don't want all your money on the go off. Not much! We know the hustling a young married man is up against and that's the reason for establishing a credit system—a system that means credit in every sense of the word. All you've got to do at this store is to come in and pick out the goods you want—just as little as you want or just as much as you want. When you've finished just say that you want to open an account. That settles it—we will let you arrange for the payments so they will come due at your own convenience.

What more could you desire! That's the story of furnishing a home the Featherman & Sumberg way, a little down and the balance to suit yourself. Now young people get busy. We've given you the secret of your neighbor's success.

SCOTSDALE, May 28.—At a meeting of the Scottdale Merchants' Association, held in the borough building in Monday evening the date was set for the annual Scottdale and Everson picnic. It will be held at Olympia Park on Wednesday, July 24, and arrangements have been made with the Baltimore & Ohio railroad for a very advantageous rate, with special train service to this popular resort. The annual picnic was held at Olympia two years ago, and two huge train loads went down to enjoy the day. The park has undergone many improvements since that time, and is one of the finest pleasure resorts in the country. The Mt. Pleasant people will be invited to join in the outing. A feature of the day that will interest the fans will be a game of ball between the McKeesport and Washington, Pa. teams of the P. O. M. League. The rate will likely be about 75 and 40 cents for the round trip. There will be another meeting of the Association on Tuesday evening, June 4, when the preliminary committees will be appointed to look after arrangements.

Special car direct to Colonial Theatre will leave Scottdale at 7:30 tomorrow evening.

News was received here on Monday of the death of J. Smith Lobingier, a prominent farmer living in Mt. Pleasant township, following a protracted illness from asthma and a stroke on Saturday. The deceased was well known about here. The funeral services will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30.

A violently drunken prisoner was picked up on the streets on Monday, apparently suffering from an attack of fits. When he got to the lock-up he refused to enter the cell, and, lying down on the floor, became a dead weight. Chief Frank McQuinn then upon seized him by the collar and the seat of the trousers, and picking him up, carried him bodily into a cell and deposited him upon one of the downy couches.

To accommodate those wishing to see Belasco's greatest triumph, "The Girl of the Golden West," a special car running direct to the Colonial will leave Scottdale at 7:30 P. M.

"I am a man of great faith," remarked George B. Shupe as he was going home Monday evening, while the shivering throng were passing by on every side, and the careful householder was putting the Sunday paper over the plants. And the evidence of Mr. Shupe's faith was under his arm. It was a roll of fly screen and a package of grass seed. "I either have faith or a 'brain storm,'" continued Mr. Shupe, "for I believe that summer is coming." A drummer in town today said that as he was going to the train he saw a great flock of wild geese pursuing their way through the sky. I forgot which way he said they were flying, but seems to me it was south.

Mrs. John I. Dick and daughter, Miss Ethel, were visitors to Pittsburgh on Monday.

Rev. W. Riss Funk, D. D., of Dayton, O., was visiting old friends here on Monday.

Supervisor Fred Ehrenfeld of East Greensburg was here on Monday looking over improvements being made at the station here.

Death put an end to sufferings of John Might, one of the pioneer citizens of Scottdale, at 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon. He was aged 64 years in February and had lived in Scottdale since 1873, coming here from his birthplace near Rochester. He was employed in the first rolling mills here, and worked as a roller for a great many years. He had served for four years in the Sixth Pennsylvania Cavalry, and was seriously wounded in the battle of Upperville, Va., when he was shot through the hand and received a deep sabre cut across the abdomen. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church. A few years ago he fell victim to the cancerous affection of the face, which severe operations failed to check, so that for the last couple of years he was a great sufferer. He is survived by a widow and four children, Florence, wife of John S. Miller, of Liggett; Bertha, wife of Daniel Kenney of Pittsburgh; Gertrude, wife of P. S. Mough, of Scottdale, and Samuel Night, Jr., of Scottdale.

From Westmoreland's County Seat.

GREENSBURG, May 28.—Burgess Berkey of Bolivar is a careful official. A riot occurred there Sunday afternoon and night among Italian laborers just outside the borough limits. No one was killed, but six foreigners were shot up, their wounds varying from one to five in number. Burgess Berkey decided to be prepared, well prepared, next time trouble comes. He appealed to Superintendent Grooms for a detail of State police to guard the camp next Saturday and Sunday. Then he notified Coroner Wynn to hold himself in readiness for calls. With troopers on the ground, and the Coroner ready for action, the situation is fully covered.

Two alleged murderers are under guard in the words of the Westmoreland hospital. Neither victim is dead, but both are beyond human aid, the surgeons say. Neither alleged criminal has much hope for life. Peter Mariani stabbed Marcel Bufano at Carbon. Bufano is dying and Mariani is in bad shape from a gunshot wound. John Klabbart shot his wife and child at Claridge. His skull is shattered and brains have been taken out. Near him lies his wife with a bullet wound through her eye and head. The child is too badly hurt to be removed from home. State troopers have the cases in charge, and will see that neither prisoner escapes.

At Bolivar early yesterday morning the storage house and the blacksmith shop of the Reese-Hammond Fire Brick Company were dynamited, and both structures were reduced to ruins. Seventy-five pounds of dynamite were set off, but luckily none of the occupants of the storage house, were injured. The property loss is not great. The dynamiting is supposed to have been done by Italians.

The estate of "Uncle Jake" Byers of Mt. Pleasant township is again in litigation in Judge Doty's court yesterday morning the case of Rev. C. R. Fomer of Scottdale, executor of the estate, against W. R. Byers and others, heirs at law of the wealthy farmer, was called. The big sum of $300,000 is involved, and the case promises to be just as interesting as the previous controversies over the estate. The question to be determined in the trial of the present suit is whether Jacob Byers at the time of making his will in 1902, in which he devised the bulk of his estate to his grandnephew, Marlon Franklin Byers, was of sound and disposing mind and memory, and whether undue influence was exerted on the mind of the testator in making the will.

GRAND OPERA.

To Be Held at the Colonial Theatre
This Week.

Connellsville's appreciation for the higher and better things in the world musical will be demonstrated by the manner in which it receives the Verdi Grand Opera Company, which will appear at the Colonial Theatre two evenings, Thursday and Friday, and the fact that its reputation as a center of culture is at stake and will doubtless insure a large audience. It especially is a good entertainment for Decoration Day.

That the performance will be well worthy of the town's best efforts, a glance at the cast guarantees. Probably the most notable of the singers is Signor Vincenzo Bartle, the tenor. Educated in Naples, Bartle made his debut in grand opera 12 years ago and has sung the chief tenor parts in "Faust," "Cavalleria," "Manon," "Rigoletto," "La Traviata," and the beautiful "L'elisir d'Amore." These years of experience have not only added strength and purity to his voice, but have made him an actor of ability.

Of the other singers Signora M. Inganoff, contralto, is the most widely known in this country. She started her musical career at the age of sixteen and received part of her education in Hamburg, where her instructor was Signor Ernesto Baraldi, under whom Madame Culve, the French nightingale, also studied.

The other soloists will be Madame Virginia Novelli, operatic soprano; Signor Antonio Greco, bass; Signor Siruta, tenor who is pronounced a coming star; Signor C. Montella, baritone; and Frank De Faranti, comedian. Prof. V. Manna, of the Royal Conservatory, Naples, will direct the large orchestra and Prof. V. Leotti, an artist of rare accomplishments, will be the pianist.

TRIP TO THE MOON.

Big Local Talent Show Given By Ladies of Y. M. C. A.

Connellsville people are to be given a rare treat in the production of "A Trip to the Moon," which is to be given at the Colonial Theatre on Thursday and Friday evenings, June 6 and 7, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Y. M. C. A.

The affair will be composed entirely of local talent and there will be 310 people in the cast. It will be an event of unusual importance in musical and social circles and it is safe to predict that every available seat in the local playhouse will be filled when the curtain goes up on the performance. The piece is a musical extravaganza and will be given with its full costuming and scenic effects under the stage direction of Mr. Hoffman of New York. Those who are to take part in the production have been practising faithfully for several weeks, and while outsiders have been religiously excluded, rumors have reached the public that the piece is an unusually pretty one.

It will be staged here fully as elaborately as in the larger cities, and in its beautiful costumes, scenes and wonderful electrical effects will surpass anything ever attempted in our city.

The song numbers are said to be unsurpassed in catchiness and have that whistling quality which makes them remembered and hummed by everybody next day.

The costumes are elaborate and expensive. The play is a constant kaleidoscopic transformation and will make the man with the blues sit up and take notice and the most grouchy will indulge in a hearty laugh.

TWO STATE STORIES.

News in Brief During the Past 24 Hours.

Van Wert, O., May 28.—Charlie Ross of this city was drowned in the Auglaize river while fishing. He is survived by a widow and three small children.

A Connellsville Bride Says "It's Simply Fine."

A Connellsville bride called a few days ago "just out of curiosity" as she said afterward, and talked over our system of selling a whole home outfit on the easy payment plan.

We explained the entire idea to her in nineteen words:—"Select whatever you want from our store and pay for it as you like—a little at a time."

"Why," she exclaimed, "is that all?"

"That is all," we assured her.

"Well, how simply fine," she exclaimed again.

"Yes," we replied, "and how finely simple."

She smiled and went on:—"Mama has always said it was a great thing to pay cash for everything. But, you see, we can't pay cash for we haven't enough to buy a whole home outfit. We have a little in the bank drawing interest but we don't like to disturb it now."

And can I really pick out what I want and pay a little bit each week or month?

We assured her she most certainly could.

"And pay no more for it than if I gave you the cash?"

Again, we answered in the affirmative.

"Indeed, then, it is simply fine," she said.

And she made her selections.

Now then, this young lad lived in Connellsville for years but had never been inside the Aaron store before. This surprised us, for we were vain enough to suppose that everybody had called on us at one time or another.

This leads us to ask:—"Are there any others?"

You, for instance, have you never called? Do you know what accommodations we offer you? And how easy we are to get along with? And how anxious and ambitious we are to please? And how careful we will be to retain your trade and friendship?

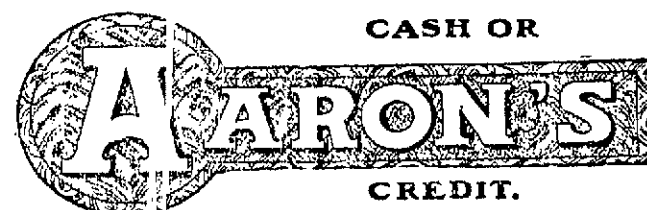

You young married couples especially—do you know just what we will do toward making you beginning quite easy in the house furnishing line?

Won't you come and see for yourself?

And don't confuse us with any other house, will you?

Our methods are different. Our goods are different. Our treatment is different.

We know you'll say, "It's simply fine."

Selling Shoes

Is certainly a pleasant duty when you are in love with the business of selling shoes. You have your heart in the work. I do not think a person could get a more pleasant job than selling shoes, that is, when you are selling shoes that you know and feel in your very heart that they are going to give perfect satisfaction. Every pair of shoes that I sell I have that feeling. It comes to me unsolicited—kind of second nature. Just come in and look over some of my high grade shoes I sell—high grade shoes that I claim cannot be beaten in Connellsville, in French calf, "Wax Calf," Patent Calf, Box Calf and Vic. A trial will convince you that every word I utter is true as gospel.

WHITE HOUSE PARTY

Headed by President and Mrs. Roosevelt, Drenched and Battered

WERE CAUGHT IN HEAVY RAIN

Rode Horseback from Alexandria to Mt. Vernon and Dined in Kitchen of Gen. Washington's Home—Explored Vast Estate and Return.

Washington, May 28.—A badly mud-battered party at the head of which was President Roosevelt, got off a car on the Washington, Alexandria and Mount Vernon Electric railway here shortly before 8 o'clock last evening. They had been on a visit to Mount Vernon, part of the trip being by horseback, and had been caught in a heavy shower. As the result of the storm the roads were in fearful condition and the riders were splashed from head to foot with mud. The other members of the party besides the President, were Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Ethel Roosevelt, Postmaster General Meyer and Captain Fitzhugh Lee, one of the President's military aides. The clothing of the entire party were drenched. The trip in many respects was a "rough riding" one.

The President has explored on horseback much of the country about Washington lying north of the Potomac river. He has also made occasional visits across the river west of Washington, in the vicinity of Chain Bridge, the Aqueduct bridge and various other places. He was anxious, however, to make the longer trip to Mount Vernon, and several days ago planned the excursion. The distance from Washington to Mount Vernon is 16 miles. The trip to Alexandria was made by trolley in half an hour. At the city's outskirts the President's orderly, McDermott, was awaiting the party with five good saddle horses. It took but a few minutes for the party to mount and get off.

They had some four miles when a severe storm overtook them. They did not have time to find shelter before all of them got drenched to the skin. Finally, they espied an unoccupied farmhouse along the roadside and sought shelter under the "lean to" at the rear for half an hour. Covering in the outbuildings also was found for the horses. There was a remarkably heavy downpour of rain and vivid flashes of lightning, accompanied by peals of thunder.

Rain was still falling lightly as the party again took up the trip to Mount Vernon, which was reached about 2 o'clock, almost an hour behind the scheduled time. Here, Colonel Dodge, the superintendent of the grounds, gave them a cordial welcome, showed them over the grounds, about 2,000 acres in all, through the mansion and the various buildings and pointed out to them the Fairfax estate in the distance. There were a number of visitors at Mount Vernon and the President shook hands with them. Lunch was served in the old house used as a kitchen on state occasions in colonial times, but now occupied as a dining room. Colonel Dodge was one of the party at lunch.

The guests were ready to return to Washington at 3:30 o'clock, but again a rain set in and delayed them for 15 minutes. Then the sun shone again and the party got off for Washington.

GIRL MAY LOSE REASON

While On Way To Be Married Is Brutally Assaulted.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., May 28.—Miss Bird, daughter of a hotel keeper at Marlinton, and a barber named Gladwell, secured a horse and buggy and eloped last night. While driving through dense wood a few miles from Marlinton they were held up by two men. The prospective groom was tied to a tree by one of the men, while the other assaulted the girl. Gladwell finally broke his bonds and returned to Marlinton, where he secured the assistance of officers. They went the scene and found the two men, with Miss Bird as a prisoner. The men were arrested and placed in jail. There was great excitement and lynching was averted with difficulty. Miss Bird is in a serious condition, and it is feared that she will become insane.

102D MILESTONE PASSES

Fayette County's Oldest Inhabitant Remembers War of 1812.

Uniontown, Pa., May 28.—Mrs. Esther Harris, the oldest person in Fayette county, is quietly observing her 102d birthday at the home of her son, Jacob G. Harris, near Bainsburg. Her maiden name was Johnson and she is the second of the Johnson family to reach the century mark, the other being Ellis Johnson, one of the founders of Mt. Union college in Ohio. Although she was only seven years old at the time, Mrs. Harris remembers the war of 1812 and relates of seeing the soldiers pass by her father's house on their way to Pittsburgh.

She also recalls the visit of General Lafayette to Fayette county 35 years ago. She rode to Brownsville on horseback to see Lafayette, but somehow in the crowd she failed to get a glimpse of the great French general.

Delmas Gets Another Job

San Francisco, May 28.—Delphin M. Delmas has been engaged to defend Louis Glass and T. V. Halsey, two of the Pacific States Telephone & Telegraph Co., indicted for bribery.

WHEAT ADVANCING

While the Break in Prices is Attributed to Persistent Selling.

New York, May 28.—With the price of wheat and cotton booming upward, the values of stocks as quoted on the New York stock exchange turned downward under persistent liquidation and scored losses ranging from 5% to 2 points for the leaders. Opening weak, the market continued its downward trend until the closing hour, when profit-taking by the bears checked the movement and brought about recoveries of a point or more in the most active stocks.

The break in prices was attributed to persistent selling, much of which was said to come from western houses actuated by the reports of damage to the wheat crop by frosts. Professional bears took quick advantage of the selling and gave the movement vigorous assistance. Rounding, which has been the leader in several similar movements lately, was one of the earliest to succumb to the urgent liquidation, dropping 3 1/2 points during the first hour. Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Amalgamated Copper, Smolting, Southern Railway, St. Paul and Brooklyn Rapid Transit were swept into the wave of liquidation and throughout the forenoon recorded steadily dropping prices. Temporary support afforded to some of the most active stocks checked the decline soon after noon, but an engagement of $300,000 gold for shipment to Paris gave the bear traders renewed courage, and after 1 o'clock prices crumbled away until new low records for the year were established in some.

REFUSES TO PRESIDE

Judge Redwine Asks Gov. Beekham to Appoint Another Trial Judge.

Sandy Hook, Ky., May 28.—Special Judge Redwine has refused to preside in the trial of Judge Hargis and his alleged co-conspirators charged with the murder of Dr. Cox Governor Beekham, therefore, must appoint another special judge. Judge Redwine said the cases had been transferred here without his knowledge or consent and because of certain statements in the press of the state he felt that it would be impossible for him to preside. Judge Redwine's action necessitates the continuance of the trial until October, but if the special judge to be selected requests, he can call a special term during the summer. Judge Redwine ordered the clerk to certify to Governor Beekham at the earliest possible moment the fact of his vacating the bench so that a special judge can be named.

Recount Bill Up Today

Albany, N. Y., May 28.—Upon request of Senator Ralston, majority leader in the senate, the New York city recount bill was made a special order for today. This course was taken by unanimous consent, to the amazement of everyone, as Senator McCarron, who was present had been expected to oppose the recount bill at every step. It is expected that it will develop the most hotly contested parliamentary fight of the present session.

THE VALUE OF PERSONAL KNOWLEDGE

Personal knowledge is the winning factor in the culminating contests of this competitive age and when of ample character it places its fortunate possessor in the front ranks of

The Well Informed of the World.

A vast fund of personal knowledge is really essential to the achievement of the highest excellence in any field of human effort.

A Knowledge of Forms, Knowledge of Functions and Knowledge of Products are all of the utmost value and in questions of life and health when a true and wholesome remedy is desired it should be remembered that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., is an ethical product which has met with the approval of the most eminent physicians and gives universal satisfaction, because it is a remedy of Known Quality, Known Excellence and Known Component Parts and has won the valuable patronage of millions of the Well Informed of the world, who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual use that it is the first and best of family laxatives, for which no extravagant or unreasonable claims are made.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent family laxative. As its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well Informed of the world to be the best we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of—Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects, always note, when purchasing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, whether you call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

DAVIS W. HENDERSON.

Candidate for District Attorney of Fayette County at the Republican Primary on Saturday, June 1, 1907.

In the person of Davis W. Henderson, a candidate for the Republican nomination for District Attorney at the primary election June 1, the voters of Fayette county will find a clean, honest, upright, sober and industrious young man. He is 31 years of age, was born and raised on a farm in Franklin township, and for the last eight years has been a resident of Uniontown. On December 4, 1900, he was admitted to the Fayette county bar and since that time has been engaged in active practice. During the last three years he has served as the Assistant District Attorney and by his conduct in that office, his faithful devotion to duty and his earnest endeavor at all times impartially and fearlessly to administer justice, he has made many warm friends and an excellent record. His work as Assistant District Attorney and the experience and training which he has gained thereby, especially fit and qualify him for the office to which he aspires.

In politics Mr. Henderson has always been a Republican, and has taken an active part therein. He is kind, courteous, affable, and accommodating to all. In his business relations, he is honest and attentive to duty. It has been by his hard work, diligent study and honest endeavors that he has risen from a boy behind the plow to the position he has now attained. Being born and raised in a simple life of a rural home, he is and always has been a friend and a man in the common people. Rich and poor, high and low all alike receive the same treatment at his hands.

On June 21, 1903, he married Miss Knott, a daughter of Mrs. J. A. Kiefer, of Uniontown. They have one son, Both Mr. and Mrs. Henderson are members of the Presbyterian church. Mr. Henderson is making his endeavor at all times impartially and fearlessly to administer justice, he has made many warm friends and an excellent record. His work as Assistant District Attorney and the experience and training which he has gained thereby, especially fit and qualify him for the office to which he aspires.

"Take it away," growled Tom. "Say what you want with me, for God's sake!"

No! It was not Daintree's ideal interview. As little did it resemble the meeting with his benefactor which Tom had once pictured and even vainly solicited, but all so long ago—in that other life—that upon him the contrast was lost. All he still remembered was that he had once imagined himself indebted to this person for the blessed gift of life. All he now perceived was his mistake and what a malignant curse that blessed gift had proved. Not that he resented it any more. He no longer resented anything to him to do. Even this person's kind, well-meant, emotional remarks moved him to no stronger feeling than one of slight impatience, nor was he listening when a look, an intonation, a pause, informed him that he had been asked a question.

"Say it again," said Tom. "I want you for my assigned servant," repeated Daintree, disregarding both the decision and the presence of Major Honeybone, who sat there quite enjoying the prospect of further opposition. "I want to be your friend—to take you away from this ghastly place—on sponge the very memory of it out of your mind. The governor agrees to it. I have his written leave. Will you come with me, Erichsen? Will you come? Will you come?"

"You're very good," said Tom. "I prefer to stop where I am."

"What?" cried both gentlemen at once. The major looked personally aggrieved.

"I prefer the iron gang."

"To my house—my protection—my friendship?"

"Error and mortification were in the rich, strong tones and in the flushed and swarthy face."

"I prefer the iron gang," repeated Tom, but his voice was weaker—he noticed it himself—and with the next breath was crying savagely that he would not go, that he would stop where he was, and who was Daintree to come interfering there? A lot he minded what the governor or what fifty governors said. There he was, and there he meant to stick. No power on earth should shift him out of that.

"Oh!" said the major. "No power, eh?"

"Short of a file of red coats, which you can't spare."

"Sentry, remove that man!"

"The rest of the gang were at supper. Tom clanked in and sat down with a rattle. He nodded to one or two desperate kindred spirits, half proudly, as much as to say: 'All right, my lads, I'm not the man to desert his pals. I'm true game to those that are true game to me. I'm that if I'm nothing else.' Those indeed were the words in his heart, but nobody answered his note; only some iron jingled where Crissey had reached out under the table and given Macbeth a kick."

As they were all shuffling out of the mess shed Butter took a pill of paper from his mouth and pressed it into Tom's hand. Tom unrolled it on his ledge and curiously read it while the sentry still stood with his lantern on the threshold.

These eleven words:

Ad up since faster went. Mac and Crissey mean to squeak.

Hardly had he deciphered them when a wardman thrust in his head and summoned Erichsen to the major's quarters.

CHAPTER XXIV.
Tom crawled into the vehicle as though those heavy chains still dangled about his legs. Nothing was so strange as the sudden cessation of the horrid jingle which had marked and mocked every movement of his body for four whole months. He felt quite lost without it, and he clambered into the carriage without a word. Daintree cracked his whip, and that was the sole sound from either of them in the first half hour of keen and starlit freedom.

"Feel cold, Erichsen?"

"No."

"Because you can have my coat if you do. My things are thicker. Only say the word."

He said nothing. Such gratitude as he felt in his degraded heart was not yet so poignant as to need expression. It was a very vague, dull sense at present. But Daintree understood. He had simply to sit next that silent, aged, callous figure to understand all.

They drove on to Mainland, where they supped handsomely and lay all night. In the morning Tom was well and warmly clothed at the best store in the township. And that day the difference was that he kept turning to look over his shoulder and this at shorter intervals as the day wore on.

"Is anything following us?" said Daintree once.

"Not yet," said Tom.

"Not yet! Why, what do you expect?"

"What I deserve," said Tom. And Daintree had the wisdom not to press him upon this or any other point. He knew what was alleged against Erichsen at Castle Sullivan. He had heard the story from the principal superintendent. He began to think there might be some truth in it, after all.

Next morning he was sure. They had put up at an unusually comfortable roadside inn, where Tom had a very excellent room, yet he came down with wild, unsteady eyes and twitching fingers.

"It's no use!" he bitterly exclaimed. "Haven't you slept?"

"Not a wink. I heard them coming all night long—heard them coming with the chains. Oh, take me back! They have made me the guilty man they said I was when I wasn't. I deserve everything now."

And a second day of terror he spent in the carriage, looking backward hour after hour, but when that also passed over and still nothing happened he began to think that either Butter was mistaken or the major incredulous or his enemies of another mind now that he was gone. At all events he took heart of grace and at last thanked Daintree for what he was doing, without asking, however, why he was doing it.

On the third forenoon the spires and windmills of Sydney fringed the sky. Then they mounted a hill, and there was the harbor sparkling above the roots of the convicts' city.

"We had better drop the 'Erichsen' now," said Daintree as they drove up to the turnpike gate. "I suggest that 'Thomas' will suffice both Christian name and surname. I think it would be preferable for the present. What say you?" Tom consented with perfect readiness and indifference, and he looked behind him for the last time as much as to say what was the only thing on earth about which he was not as indifferent as the dead.

They drove down Brickfield hill over the spot where Nat Sullivan had tumbled off his horse and past the notorious inn where he had lain. It flourished still. And still the doleful feline music filled the air, striking more staccato in this crisp weather than six months since in the heavy heat, but it struck to Tom's heart no more. On the quay there was a crowd and a fresh shipload of convicts disembarking, but Tom felt no pity for them either. And now, when his indignation was aroused, it was by the lounging loziness of a road gang, whose overseers were smoking and chatting with the convicts, while the latter moved neither hand nor foot, and the sentries yawned at their post.

"They want the major there," said Tom grimly. "He'd have that peck of stones about their ears if they stood looking at it much longer."

Daintree turned and regarded him with a particularly pleased and kindly smile; then Tom knew that he had just volunteered his first remark since leaving the stocks, and he thought he knew with what sympathetic patience his first voluntary remark had been waited for, though he only now suspected this from Daintree's smile. His heart swelled a little. They put up at an inn, and he made himself more useful to his new master than he had been yet.

The bungalow was some few miles out upon the delightful sandy shores of Ross bay. They drove on there in the afternoon, and the greenwood dipping beyond the post and rails of the Old Point Piper road, the lush meadows dipping beyond that and the azure arm of the harbor seen through the one and above the other were all a very wonderful change after that terrible plateau of the past four months. Nor had they any feature in common with the detested region of Castle Sullivan. Tom had seen nothing like this on country. To crown all, the bungalow lay bathed in the richest sunset when they reached it and Ross bay deserved that name indeed, for its sunlit waters appeared to be damped with wet rose leaves from strand to strand. It was as though nature herself were trying to soften that frozen heart and to welcome Tom Erichsen to this haven of peace.

An old man came out to see to the horses. A somewhat younger woman stood in the mellow light upon a wide veranda. Daintree greeted them with an air—almost the first he had permitted himself in Tom's company. With another, however, he took Tom's hand and expressed characteristically the hope that the threshold of his house would prove to be also that of a new life for Tom.

"You have left the past behind you, Thomas," said he, "and all your enemies with it. I am sure of that. If they follow you here they'll have me to deal with. I can promise them they have laid their last finger on you. No; there's a brighter future ahead of you, I trust, and always recollect—I am your friend."

"I suppose you are," said poor Tom in reply. He could believe and feel but little even yet.

"You suppose I am?" cried Daintree, looking rather queerly at Tom. "You shall dine at my table," he then exclaimed. "You shall have all your meals with me! Mrs. Pawcett, lay a place for Thomas and show him his room."

It was a little room certainly, but an incredibly pleasant one. The window almost overhung the bay, and the bed was a white feast for bloodshot eyes. "Dinner's ready. Don't you spoil it, young man, by keeping master waiting," said Mrs. Pawcett, and then over her shoulder as she went, "My word, but you're a lucky cue!"

Perhaps he required telling so. It was all so difficult to believe, so impossible to understand. But nevertheless had not yet given place to curiosity.

He was, however, beginning to realize that he had fallen from the cruelest into the kindest hands on earth when, returning to the veranda, he encountered the kind man, with a gleaming eye and a sea face quite inconsistent with that impression. A fat, portly, indifferently bred, with one ear up and one down, but the most eager eyes, had widely welcomed Daintree while Daintree was welcoming Tom. This little dog he was now dragging savagely along by his collar.

"Won't come into my study?" explained Daintree in a tone of amazing fury. "Once I thrashed him in there, so now he thinks he won't do it. But he shall be thrashed!"

Mr. Sullivan himself in dealing with a recalcitrant convict could have employed no more ferocious tone.

The dog was dragged within a yard of the door it would not enter, then released, and it did not run away. Daintree now went within and called and whistled to the dog, but there it stood, belittling all over, and yet waggling its tail with immense energy, as if to proclaim its anxiety to please in any other way, but that that could not be done.

Now, it still frantically rushed out in his face that the little dog turned tail and ran away. And again he caught it, and again and again the letting you do such a thing in your hand."

The other gasped, but never said a word.

"If the dog is so good to you give him to me," continued Tom. "Don't shoot him, sir. Not that I believe you meant it." And to show his belief he dropped the former, whereupon Daintree hesitated, but presently retreated to his room without a word.

The dog was spared. They sat down at last to cool dishes that should have been hot, and their mutual ardor had suffered with the winds. Daintree was very solemn and very stiff, his lips a compassion quite certain that he had given moral everlasting offense. But the incident was never referred to again, and Tom soon forgot the solitary occasion upon which his champion displayed himself in so singular a light.

Not that the other lights were all rose colored. The man had foibles innumerable and in their way as extraordinary as his inexplicable kindness to Tom. This continued and increased, and yet there was something ostentatious, val'lorous, egotistical, even in his kindest acts. Tom hated himself for seeing it, but there it was. It became more noticeable as Tom himself grew more regenerate and so made fewer demands upon the other's consideration. And then the glowing vanity of the man! His literary pretensions! His solemn belief in himself and all he did!

But he had done enough for me," sighed Tom, a little ashamed. "I want try to do nothing else, but what I can't help seeing shall never, never, never make any difference to my regard for him."

PRESIDENT'S VISIT WILL BE SHORT.

Executive to Remain in Canton Only Until After Funeral of Mrs. McKinley.

BODY TO LIE IN STATE.

For Public View on Wednesday Between Hours of Three and Five O'clock—Business Will Be Suspended During the Funeral.

Publishers' Press Telegram.
CANTON, May 25.—President Roosevelt will remain in Canton Wednesday only long enough to attend the funeral of Mrs. Ida McKinley and as soon as the funeral is over will leave for Indianapolis. The President with Secretaries Root and Wilson, members of President McKinley's old cabinet, will arrive here Wednesday at 12.30 o'clock. The President will go directly to the residence of Justice William R. Day, which is but a few doors from the McKinley home. The funeral services will take place Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and at 4.30 o'clock will leave for Indianapolis.
Vice President and Mrs. Fairbanks will also be guests at Judge Day's home. They will arrive in Canton tonight. The body will be in public view from 3 until 5 o'clock today at the McKinley residence. Thousands of school children will pass before it. Business and schools will come to a standstill during the funeral hour Wednesday, and buildings will be appropriately draped with flags at half mast. A detachment of regulars on guard at the McKinley tomb will act as guard for the President and may be detailed for duty at the house. The Ohio State officials will attend the funeral in a body.

ROMEO IS BACK.

Crack Outfielder of Connellsville Club Will Play Today Against Cumberland.

"Romeo, Romeo, wherefore art thou, Romeo?"
Romeo has returned. Not the Shakespearean creation, but just plain "Romeo" Parsons, the crack outfielder of the Connellsville team. Romeo was called home on important business matters, very important, and for a while it was feared he might not return. Last evening, just as the shades of twilight fell over the coke region, Romeo and his little grip returned to the Malarky fold.
Parsons will play today. This cold weather has prevented him from getting in trim but he will be in the game to do or die for the Malarkyites. Ambery will probably be back at his usual position in short field.
Cumberland arrived in town this morning. The Latrobe aggregation is filling the Cumberland dates until other arrangements are made and other players secured. Manager Thomas Dillon of the Green City aggregation will not join the team here until tomorrow.

A BIG HOUSE

Will See Girl from the Golden West Which Comes to the Colonial Theatre Tomorrow Evening.

The season's closing attraction, "The Girl of the Golden West," which comes to the Colonial Theatre Wednesday evening promises to be one of the best attractions ever presented at the local theatre. The advance sale of seats has been unusually large and many of them have been reserved by out of town patrons of the theatre.
Special cars will leave Scotland at 7.30 o'clock and Dunbar at 7.40 o'clock running direct to the theatre and will leave the theatre immediately after the close of the performance.

"SHORTY" OUT.

Now Navigates on Crutches as Result of Recent Fall.

"Shorty" Zimmerman is out of the hospital and getting around on crutches as the result of falling from a bridge of the Washington Run railroad some weeks ago. He is in bad shape but able to travel a little.
"Shorty" has had wonderful luck. He has fallen from the old theatre, the Colonial building and several other high places, including the Victoria Hotel in New Haven, but none of the falls proved fatal, although they might have killed an ordinary man, which "Shorty" isn't.

Edith Marilla.

Edith Beulah Marilla, colored, died Monday of pneumonia at the home of her parents Daniel and Mollie Marilla at Trotter, aged 10 months and 11 days. Funeral from her late residence Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. Young, pastor of the A. M. E. church officiating. Interment in Hill Grove Cemetery.

Frank Otto Settles Case.

The case against Frank Otto of Connellsville has been settled by Otto paying the costs. The young man had been in ill health and was not responsible when he attempted to pass a forged check for $500.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION

For Permanent Certificates Will Be Held This Week at Uniontown.
The teachers' examination for permanent certificates will be held Friday and Saturday at the High School building in Uniontown. Heretofore the examinations have been held at the Park school house in North Union township.
The examining board is composed of Miss Clara Smith and L. G. Chorprenning of Uniontown and T. H. Means of Perry. A large number of teachers passed the professional examinations given last year and it is likely that they will take the permanent examination this year.

KEEPING HOUSE.

Evelyn Thaw Living Quietly in New Home in New York—She Sees Her Husband Daily.

Publishers' Press Telegram.
NEW YORK, May 25.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw is indulging in the luxury of getting away from public attention and is living the simple life in a home of her own with one single servant. She is playing the role of housekeeper herself. A residence in Park avenue near Fifty-ninth street is the scene of her housekeeping activities. She moved into her new home Monday, taking her belongings from the Hotel Lorraine, where she has resided since Thaw's arrest.
Part of her daily program will be the preparation with her own hands of the delicacies she daily carries to Thaw in the Tomb. Mrs. William Thaw will make her home with Evelyn when in the city, and the house has been fitted up luxuriously for their occupancy.

We're Going to Change Our Advertisements Daily.

It has been our custom to allow an advertisement to appear in three or four issues of our local papers and it was successful to a marked degree, but since we have opened our Uniontown establishment, (a store fully as large as our Connellsville store,) it is plain that by our greatly increased selling facilities we are in a position to handle immense quantities of merchandise in addition to that which we formerly handled; thus forming live store news for each day in the week.

Our former methods of advertising become wholly inadequate to our present increased business. We are now the largest distributors of merchandise in Western Pennsylvania (Pittsburgh excepted.) We can now purchase (special lots) of merchandise at a price that will sell it in a day. We can do this every day and we'll advertise these specials in

OUR DAILY BULLETIN

We guarantee a positive saving on every item that appears in our bulletin, advertised in evening papers and sold the next day. We'll make it the newest section of the paper. You'll quickly learn to read it each night and profit on the morrow.
